

Livy wants to curler.

By: Alaina

Livy sat there watching the clock. It was almost indoor recess time. She really wants to color at recess. Livy ran faster and faster to her friend Addison. Hay Addison you want to color with me? Yelled Livy. Know thank you yelled Addison.

A yellow cartoon character with a white face and a speech bubble. The character is drawn with thick yellow lines and has a simple, friendly appearance. The speech bubble is a large, irregular oval shape with a tail pointing towards the character's mouth.

Come on come on

Has your friend ever want to do something you don't want to do? Well that's exactly what happened with Livy when she wanted to color at recess. Then Livy had an idea, her idea was to play rock, paper, scissors, and shoot. Then the person who won is the person who gets to play what they want to play. So Livy won and shouted at the top of her lounge I won so loud everyone in the class could hear.

So the next time
someone wants to do something you don't want to do just follow
the instructions. Livy learned an important
lesson that day, you don't have to do what you always want to do.
