

NO GOOD BOOK

By: Alycia Herrema
March 2015

"A book order! I wish I thought of that before all of that trouble this morning." Rachel thought.

Rachel felt so proud of her self because she had finished all of her 47 books. "Hey mom," She yelled, "Can we go to the library because I just finished all of my 47 books?"

"Of course we can," Mom replied happily.

So they got in the car and headed to the library.

Rachel's long, smooth, blond hair fell in her face when she burst in the big library doors.

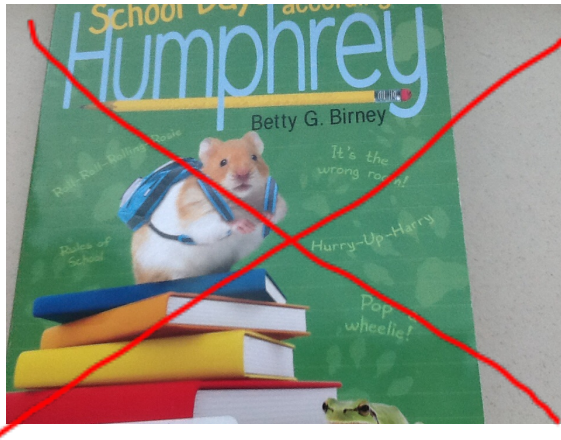

She walked down the long columns of big bright colorful books. While she walked she couldn't find a good book. So since she couldn't find a good book, they went to go ask the librarian for suggestions. When they did the librarian said "Wow, your glasses are very pretty and they make your bright blue eyes pop out."

"Thank you, but I came here to ask you if you have any Wolves of the Beyond books here?" "No ,I'm sorry but we don't."

"Come on mom we're leaving, they don't have the book."

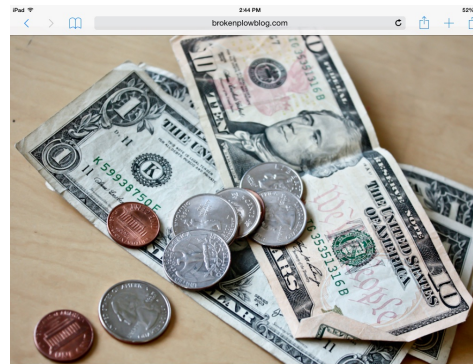

So they got in the car and headed to every library in town and none of them had it! So as they went home Rachel had a blue heart and no good book. "I give up." She moaned. When they got home Rachel went and sat on the couch sobbing. She was so mad she grabbed her glasses and threw them on the ground. All she wanted was a new book to read.

Then she got the idea to go play some games on the computer. As soon as she did, a book order popped up!

"Mom, look at what I found!" Rachel yelled. "What is it? Mom asked. "It's a book order website!" She yelled. "And look at this book I found. It has 271 pages!" She explained to her mom.

"Can I please get it?" Rachel begged. "Oh, all right, but you are going to pay. And I guess just this once." Mom replied. "Yay!" Rachel screamed.

That day Rachel learned that you can't just give up, you might need to try everything until you get what you were after.

"I'm happy with the book I have."

