

George Learns A Lesson

Have you ever lost your grandma? Well that's what happened to George. One gloomy and rainy day George asked his grandma if they could go to Meijer.

When they were in the car George's grandma said "George your eyes sparkle like the ocean and your hair like the sun."

Grandma!

like the...

Ocean!

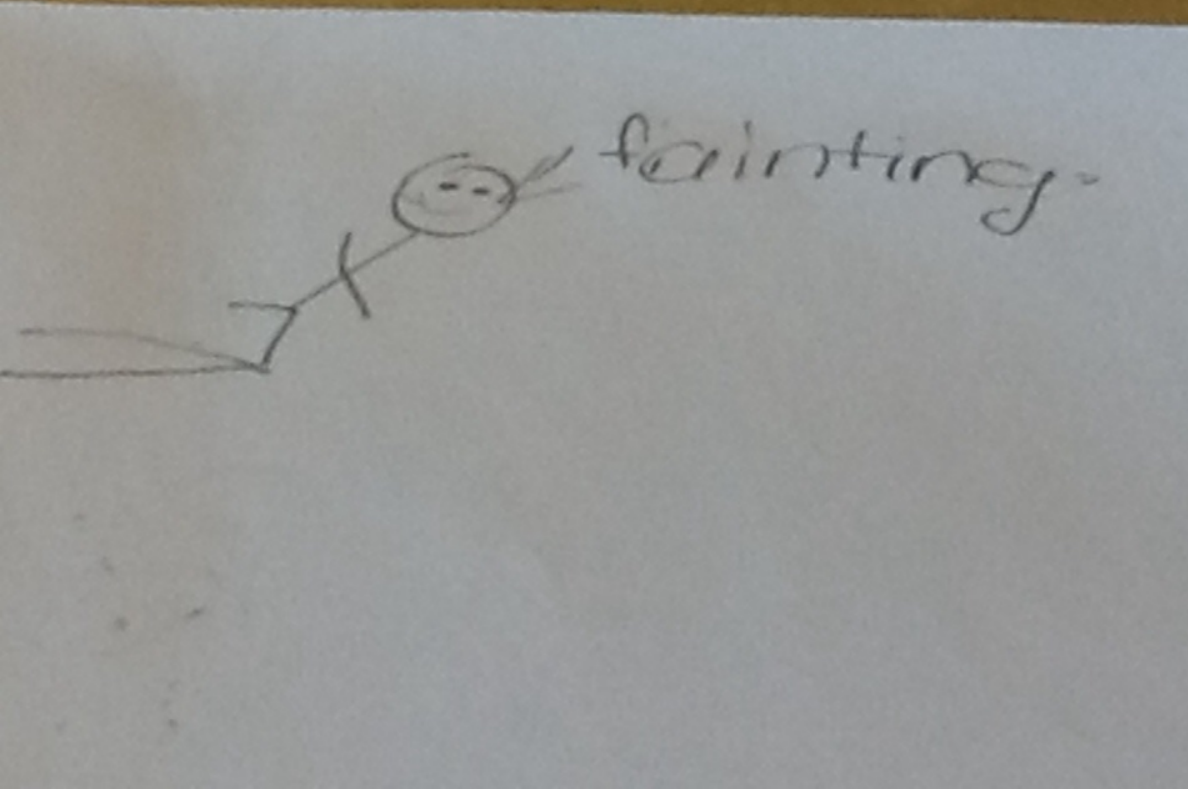

like the sun

Eventually they got there and he ran straight to the shoes knowing that he was going to get a pair. Then he ran to tell his grandma he will be by the toy aisles.

So then he jogged then skipped then walked...

He almost fainted from how many aisles there were so he went and got a cart. Then he counted all the shelves and he was taller than six of the shelves.

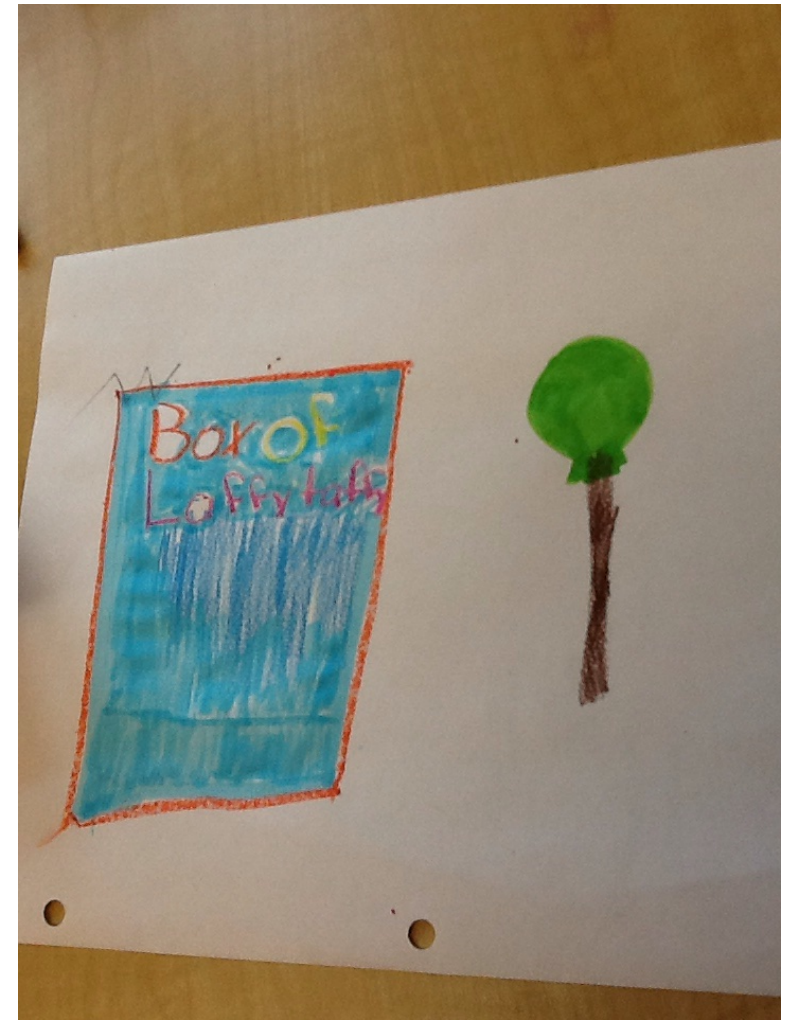

He filled the cart with Legos, 100s of Hot Wheels, and other junk. He called "Grandma! Grandma!" a couple of times. He couldn't find her and he began sweating and his face was as red as a baboons bottom.

He got out his iPhone and called his loving and caring mother Raquel for help.

After he found her they all went to the check out and George decided to go get some candy.

Two minutes later the search was on. They first went by the front desk, then the frozen treats, then the shoes (Because his grandma loved shoes). Eventually they went to the front desk again and decided to split up. George went in a circle for twenty minutes and almost gave up but then he found her!

When he returned his mom and grandma were both gone! As you can learn from George it's better to stay close than to not wander off alone.
