

Ron Has A Problem

Ron let out the totally, definitely, fake smile as he expressed madly to himself "Is it ever going to get quieter in this house? I'm assuming not."

Well after this quick story you will know what Ron means.

Ron had sat down to read in his superb, sound blasting chair, but Ron's baby sister had just been annoying Ron's older sister who was always annoyed by everything.

In what was probably a fraction of a sudden second she burst out of the room screaming...

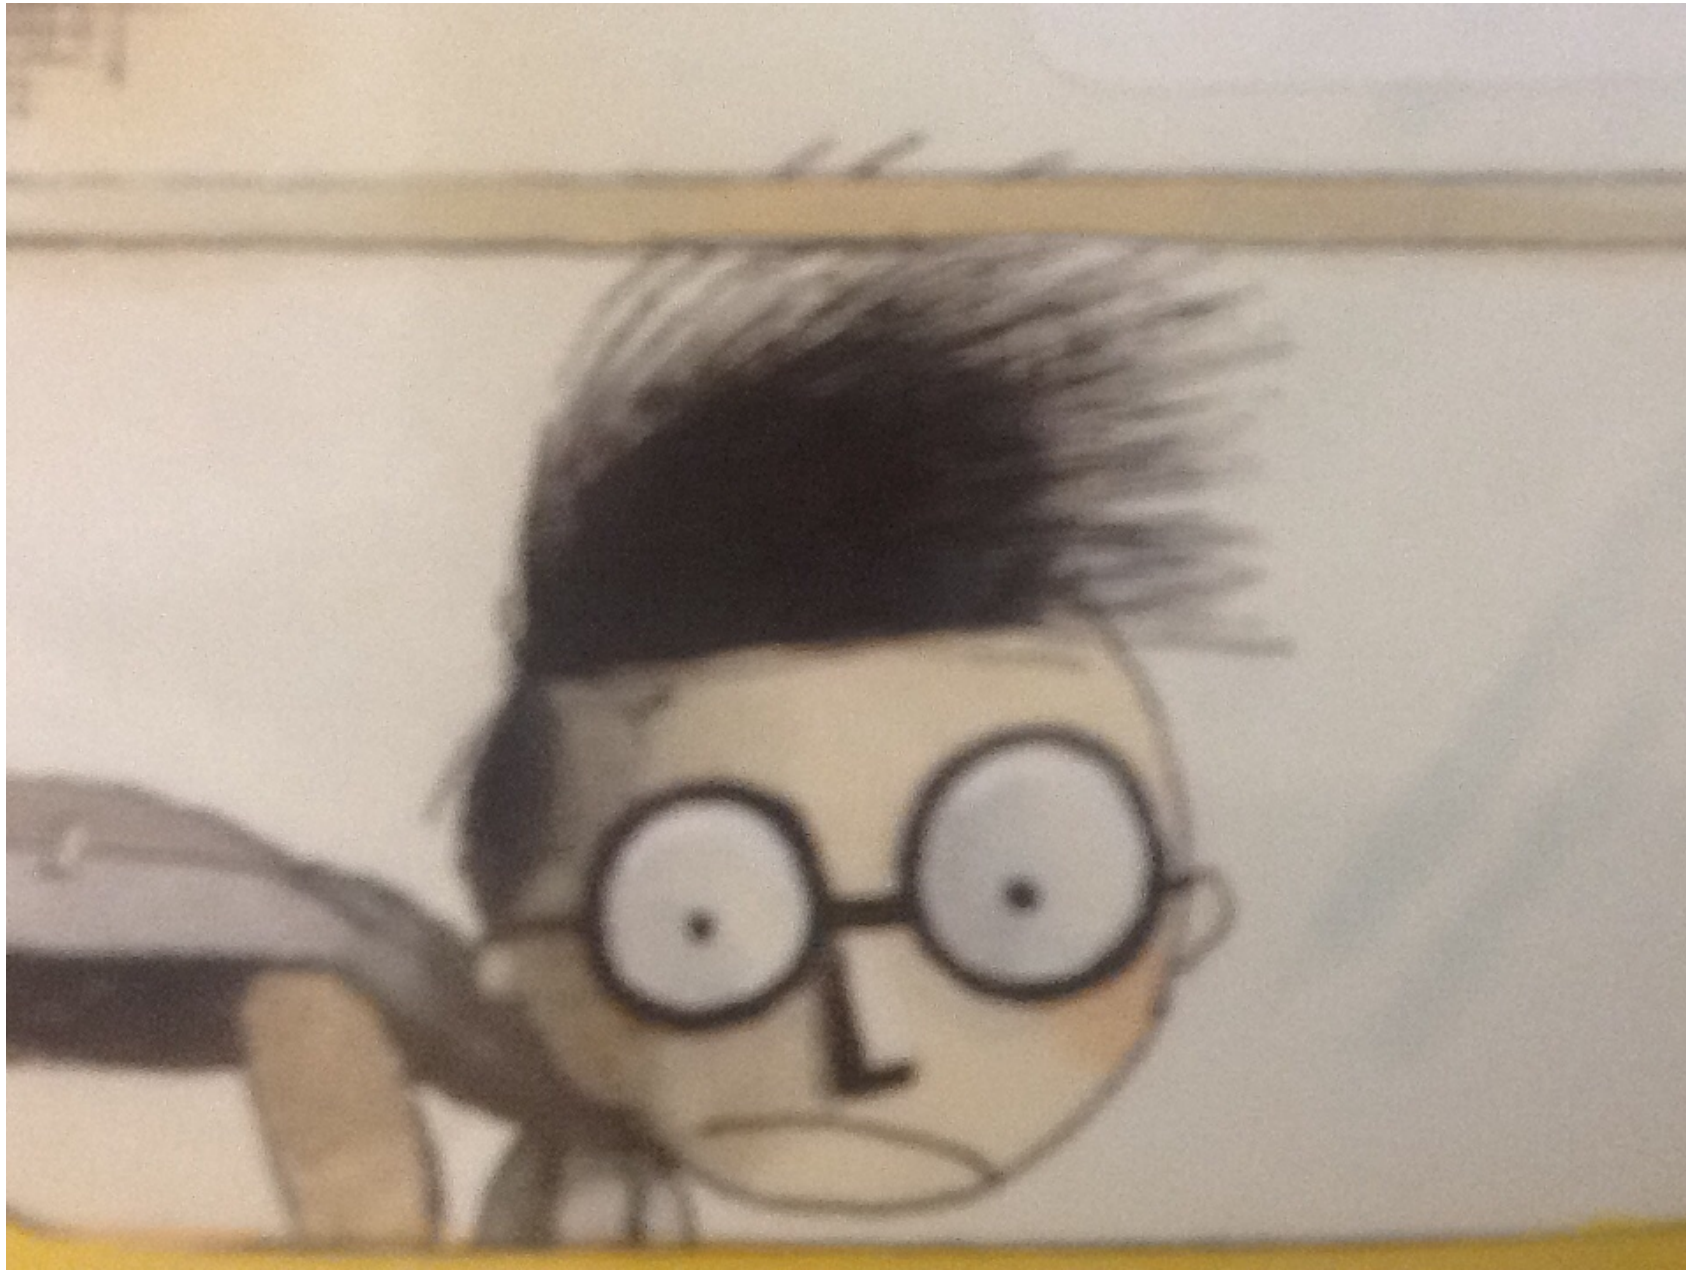

"GO AWAY AND ANNOY RONDO HE WILL LOVE IT AND DON'T COME BACK!"
" Ron's older sister told his younger sister.

And so right about then, she lunched herself over to Ron and started to pound on his door. She screamed and cried "AHHHHHHHHH!"

While Ron's older sister was ROARING WITH LAUGHTER "hhhhhhhhhaaaaaaa!" Ron was sarcastically thinking to himself, "Oh how funny. Go around bugging people. And run around like it's not a big deal. Well to me it is a BIG DEAL!!!" He got up and walked over to the door and roared, "BE QUIET NOW!"

But what big help did that do? None. It just got even louder and then about 10 seconds later he got up and opened the door. He thought she just wanted to come in and it didn't even help it just got louder and louder and louder then he thought to himself "Why does she get louder? I opened the door now what?"

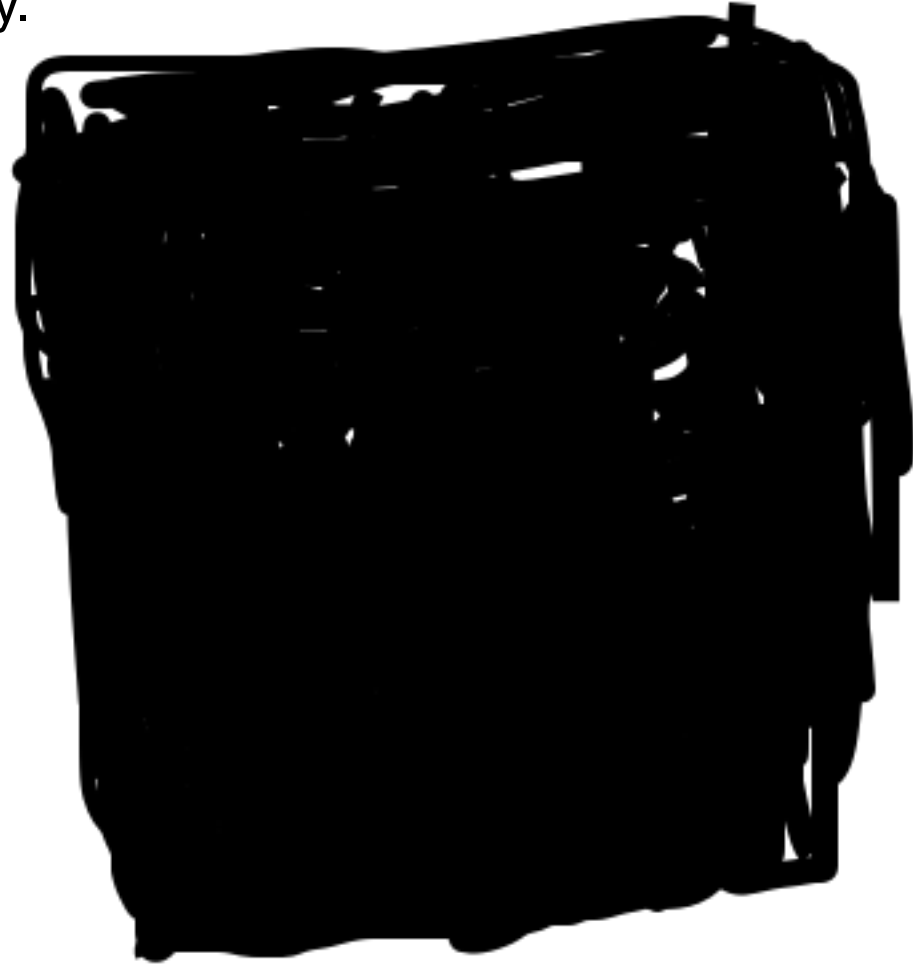

"Huh?" shrugged Ron "Let's just hope it's quiet for dinner." Just then Ron's dad called "Dinners ready come get dinner!" "Okay!" shouted Ron. Then Ron walked in the kitchen and muttered something like "ohhhh tacos."

Then he sat down on the hard wood chair and whispered to his mom and dad "Well you know how it's so loud and annoying? When I'm just reading, no harm done to me or you or anyone and still the baby's just bawling it out like a scared little kid. She repeats it again and again over and over again." "Well Ron we totally know the baby is crying but how about this we just need to think of a solution for the problem!" said Ron's dad "Okay dad and mom." roared Ron.

So a few minutes later Ron's dad said "Well Ron, mom and I were thinking and the best idea we came up with was a trip to the library for some quiet reading time." "Okay." said Ron sarcastically. "Well then if you really like reading we can take you 2 to 3 days a week. One day if you don't like the library that much at all. Then we won't go and you can keep your life how it is. We're not bringing your sisters just you alright?" "Well okay." "whispered Ron.

Then the next day they went to the library and Rons read for 2 hours. Every time they were there Ron got into good books and got some peace and quiet. Then one day he lost his library card "Oh no here we go again!" complained Ron.
