

Tattle Expire
By:Seth Ryan Brill
March 2015

The wind groaned and the sun faded as Mike's sister began to tattle. But then...stomp, stomp, stomp. Mike heard the sound he wanted to hear. It meant his sister had failed to tell on him. This is the problem Mike will have throughout this book (tattling).

In the beginning when Mike was outside minding his own business he hears...."Moma, Mike went outside again without asking." Well there goes weirdo, telling on me once again Mike thought.

Later on when Mike was in the pantry eating a bag of Chex-mix because he had already asked for it, his sister comes in and says "Hey you can eat this candy. I asked mom if we could both have a piece."

So Mike grabs the sucker from his sister and eats it. The second Mike swallowed the candy Mike's sister says, "Ha now I can tell on you once again!"

Chex-mix

Then again the next day his sister decided that she would tattle on him once more and she decided that it would involve Mike loosing $600 dollars. She thought nasty as hard as she could and thought of the best most nastiest plan.

She named it the $600 dollar phone minus. Mike was thinking of something else and that was: Don't you think you should tattle on Abby for all the things she's done to me?

But right at that moment Mike heard "Hey!" Mike whipped around but only saw a 6-foot tall ladder, an iPhone6 phone cord, and a drawer marked phone stuff open.

What Mike didn't know was that his sister was right above him clinging on to the beams of the roof of an unfinished basement with a type of iPhone in her pocket. Now if Mike was a little bit taller his sister would've kicked him. Too bad for Mike.

Then Mike's sister put the phone on Mike's head, let go of the beams of the unfinished basement and said "Hey!"

Mike wiped around once more and saw his sister looking guilty but a quarter of a second later a problem began to take place. It got bigger three quarters of a second later when Mike heard a loud noise and it sounded like a big CRACKING. noise of an iPhone6.

Now Mike is very smart and he did not all of a sudden scream and say it was not his fault although immediately his face went slightly red.

The phone had been broken into pieces and Mike's sister...

(TATTLED).

"MIKE WHY DID YOU BREAK MY PHONE?!"

"But I didn't."

"But I'll tell you one thing, the other day I saw tattletale throw away your iPad."

Now Mike hadn't been lying lately so he got away with it and his sister received a consequence and that was to pay her mom $849.99 dollars for the iPhone6 and iPad mini.

And after she was finished with that she went over to Mike and said "Thanks a lot."

And Mike replied "Well maybe you should quit tattling on me."

"Fine I won't tattle
on you" Mike's sister said.

"Good" Mike said.

Mike learned that actions aren't what get your way only conversations.

And Mike's sister learned a valuable lesson too and that is only tattle if it's important.

Now here's a question for you what would you do if you were Mike?

THE END

